The Sheridan is expected to make its accustomed call at Nagasaki, Japan. If it is well filled with Philippine products, little Japanese coal will be taken at that port. Heretofore vessels in the army transport service have been filled to capacity with fuel supplied at Japan.

The congestion at Manila is due Boston Building, mainly to the lack of tonnage to arry the output from the Philippines. Most of the foreign vessels heretofore employed in this service have been commandeered since the beginning of the European war.

Many of the freight carriers now assing through Honolulu with heavy argoes for Siberia and North China were regular carriers in the Philippine-New York trade until the outbreak of hostilities. The Sheridan is due at Honolulu about May 4.
